Description – For the last 10+ years I've been celebrating #ChocolateThursdays by indulging in delicious chocolate, sharing chocolate recipes with friends or reminding others to splurge and celebrate with chocolate in some way. Since March 9, 2020 I've been sharing 20 minutes of purposeful playful laughter for better health on Facebook Live every day to help people with the stress and overwhelm so many people are feeling.

Every Thursday, in keeping with my tradition, I've managed to combine laughter with chocolate, by sharing a favorite chocolatier, a recipe, etc., that is woven into the laughter session. In October, I was gifted a box of chocolates from a friend, and after a conversation about the importance of supporting small businesses, I decided to add another layer to what I was already doing.

My goal is to provide an extra laughter pick-me-up to someone who needs it and support other small businesses by promoting their chocolate to my laughter audiences.

My followers are encouraged to refer people to me who they know who need an extra 'pick-me-up.' Those people receive an invitation to a special 'Laughter Feast with Chocolate' on Zoom, along with a gift of chocolate from designated chocolatiers.

Chocolate businesses provide coupons, gift cards and/or samples of their chocolate to be gifted to designated recipients, with the understanding that due to the promotional aspect of the program, ultimately, more business will come their way.

Sponsors make this possible.
